CHARLES W. HAWKES LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

The Charles W. Hawkes Lifetime Achievement Award, the Association's highest honor, is presented in memory of the late Charles W. Hawkes, a past President of the Texas Probation Association and the former Chief Probation Officer for Jefferson County. This award, created in 1998, is presented to a member of the Association for a lifetime of service to the probation association.

BRIAN J. KELLY AWARD

The Brian J. Kelly Award is presented to an adult administrator who has significantly contributed to the profession and/or Association. Nominees are evaluated in the following areas:

- 1) Support of the Association through committee work, holding office, voluntary efforts and continuous or total yrs of membership;
- 2) dedicated service to the courts of a given jurisdiction;
- 3) development and implementation of new programs;
- 4) publications or research;
- 5) other significant factors.

JUDGE TERRY L. JACKS AWARD

This award, named in memory of the late Terry L. Jacks, a District Judge and an original member of the Texas Probation Commission, is presented to an adult line officer who has made significant contributions to the community corrections profession.

ARIS JOHNSON AWARD (formerly the Amador R. Rodriguez Award)

This award has been newly renamed to honor Aris Johnson, retired Chief Probation Officer for Gregg County Juvenile Probation and past President of the Texas Probation Association. It is presented to recognize an outstanding administrator from the juvenile discipline.

CLARA POPE-WILLOUGHBY AWARD

This award, named in memory of the late Clara Pope-Willoughby, an advocate for juveniles and persons in need of services, is presented to a juvenile line officer who has made significant contributions to the juvenile justice system.

LEWIS "BUTCH" AMONETTE AWARD

This award, named in memory of the late Lewis "Butch" Amonette, Chief Juvenile Probation Officer for Pecos County, was initially named the Ace Award. The award is given to a probation professional who has both administrative duties and supervises a caseload. Typically persons from small departments are selected for this award.

ROXANE MAREK AWARD (formerly the Roy H. Williams Award)

This award has been newly renamed to honor Roxane Marek, Chief Probation Officer of Wharton County and past President of the Texas Probation Association. The award is presented to recognize an adult or juvenile probation professional for significant, long-standing contributions to the Texas Probation Association.

SAM HOUSTON STATE UNIVERSITY AWARD

The Sam Houston State University Award was created in 1987. It is presented to recognize an individual who has made scholarly contributions to the community corrections profession.
